Best Eats

Delicious and affordable comfort food

Food snobs and CrossFitters avert your eyes: BK Best Eats is back. Our annual guide assembles a who's who of Bangkok's best—gut-busting barbecue platters, billowing pizzas and bulging burritos galore.

If you're tired of hearing about daintily-portioned B4,000 tasting dinners but are lost when it comes to Bangkok's turbulent sea of chains and mall offerings, then read on. In this comprehensive run-down, we drop the pretension and go all-in for convenience, value and downright deliciousness. Diet? What diet. In the world of Best Eats, every day is a cheat day. Let the feast begin.

BEST HEALTH CAFE

Tonic

This health-conscious spot specializes in pre-mixed salads for you to pick and mix, all made using vegetables and whole grains with healthy coconut and olive oil dressings. Choose from a rotating list of items like pesto zucchini noodles, carrot and chickpeas, feta and sweet corn salad, and Asian quinoa slaw; as well as proteins like salmon, honey mustard chicken, sesame crusted tofu and baked falafel. Bonus: each dish labels its macro-nutrients for extra health points.

Habito Mall, 45/19 Sukhumvit Rd., 090-916-5186. Mon-Sun 8am-8:30pm. Other branches: Phrom Phong (grab-and-go); Lumpini.

Acai Story

Helmed by the famous Bangkok nutritionist known online as Ms Happy Diet, this superfood cafe in the stylish EmQuartier serves up antioxidant-rich acai pulp smoothie bowls amid pink-washed interiors. The chocolate topped Unstoppabowl will have you hooked with its blend of granola, fresh fruit, cacao nibs, chia seeds and goji berries. For a lighter health-kick try the simple yet effective acai smoothie.

B/F, EmQuartier, Sukhumvit Rd., 098-859-8747. Open daily 10am-10pm

Dressed

One of the first reliable chain salad lunch options in Bangkok, Dressed keeps health-conscious eaters coming back thanks to huge portions that don't skimp on the proteins and a high level of flavor in most of the salads. Choose from the menu or go it alone with the DIY salad list. They also dish out a selection of wraps, paninis, pastas and soups.

Dressed, G/F, Mercury Ville, 540 Phloen Chit Rd., 02-658-6688. Open daily 9am-9:15pm. Other branches: Siam Paragon, Empire Tower, Exchange Tower, and Siam Discovery.

May Veggie

8/3 New Ratchadapisek Rd., 02-118-2967. Open daily 11am-10pm

Chef Pornnapat Lawasut's creations are solid proof that vegan food doesn't have to be tasteless. This Asoke institution has even won the hearts of meat-eaters thanks to convincingly flavorful fare like the spicy-sweet yum saab gai grob (Thai-style deep-fried vegetarian-chicken salad) and the fried "chicken" made from premium-grade soy product. The lengthy menu packed with faux meats warrants return visits.

Broccoli Revolution

Plant-based food at this bright, double-decker bistro is top notch. The quinoa burger may be the most famous dish, although our personal indulgence is the cauliflower tempura in hot sauce. That and the smoothie bowls.

BEST IZAKAYA

Shakariki 432

This isn't Japanese fine dining. It's an Osaka-inspired chain representing the essence of an izakaya; down to earth, great food and incredible late night hours with cold Asahi. The menu for both drinks and food are extensive, and won't drain your wallet. Specialties include kasu udon (beef noodles), Osaka-style okonomiyaki (savory pancakes), and yakitori sets that offer whole chickens in five parts. Beneath the kitsch red lanterns, as closing time approaches, the Japanese crowd grows more and more boisterous.

PS Tower, 36/1 Sukhumvit Soi 21, 02-664-0927. Mon-Thurs 11am-3am; Fri 11am-5am; Sat 3pm-5am; Sun 3pm-3am. 14 branches around Bangkok.

Teppen

From the long bar, watch the chefs sear bonito fish over a straw fire for the delicate katsuo warayaki. The robatayaki (charcoal barbecue) and karaage (deep-fried chicken) pair perfectly with sake and highballs.

14/2 Sukhumvit Soi 61, 063-205-1889. Open Mon-Fri 6pm-midnight; Sat 5pm-midnight; Sun 5-11pm. Other branch: Sathorn.

Katsu Shin

The specialty here is tonkatsu (breaded pork), but these guys will bread and deep-fry just about anything—fish, shrimps, vegetables, bits of liver. Raw fish dishes like maguro tataki (tuna) and bintoro aburi (albacore) are lightly blow-torched instead. With dark wood and dim lighting, this narrow shophouse has a cozy, tavern-like atmosphere. It's a versatile venue, perfect for both a quick lunch or a marathon drinking session. Grab a whisky cocktail, or a frosty mug of draft Asahi.

9/1 Silom Soi 6, 02-237-3073. Mon-Sat 11am-2pm, 6-10pm; Sun 11:30am-2:30pm, 5:30-9:30pm

Yoshinoyama Izakaya

12/4 Sukhumvit Soi 26, 02-259-2582.
Open daily 5pm-1am. BTS Phrom Phong

Here, the comfortable atmosphere will make you feel like stepping into an izakaya bar at the outskirts of Tokyo. The menu is packed with izakaya-style dishes at competitive prices, such as the Horenso bacon salad with amaranth leaves instead of the usual seaweed, and ebiten maki which is crispy fried shrimp rolls. Drink options include beer, sake, and Jinro soju.

Nihon Saiseisakaba

Born in Tokyo, and now 20-strong across Asia, this izakaya's specialty is motsuyaki—skewers grilled over binchotan charcoal. The meat is typically seasoned with salt or tare sauce (soy, sake, mirin and sugar). Skewer options include chicken, pork and beef, with prices starting at just B29. Try the beef tongue, pig diaphragm, or smooth tsukune (chicken meatballs), or go for a chicken teriyaki rice bowl. Veggie options are also available.

Warehouse 26, Sukhumvit Soi 26, 097-932-4782 and 02-070-7676. Open daily 5:30pm-midnight

Kelly's

This izakaya named after Grace Kelly offers a stream of classic comfort food—nabe (hot pot), teppanyaki (griddles), takoyaki balls, wings, noodles and more. The teriyaki skewers are excellent. The owner is from Nagoya and works some regional favorites into the menu, too. Drinks include cheap and colorful cocktails, a lengthy selection of sake, shochu and umeshu, and requisite Asahi draft beers. The vibrant '50s-style decor makes a refreshing change from your usual tavern vibe, and there's even a bottomless drink promotion.

46 Sukhumvit Soi 51, 02-662-5155. Mon-Sat 5:30-10pm

BANGKOK'S FAMOUS IZAKAYA CHAIN OPENS A NEW BRANCH IN THONGLOR

Nagiya, one of Bangkok's most-beloved izakaya restaurants, is now offering its famous steaming hot pots and classic yakitori skewers at an intimate spot in Donki Mall Thonglor. Nagiya is a go-to spot for the after-work crowd; with Japanese businessmen often spotted as weeknight regulars. And the new branch offers a sleek modern wooden interior, without sacrificing the cozy but energetic vibe of Nagiya's five other Bangkok establishments. Thunderous roars still bellow from the kitchen as patrons come and go, and Tokyo kitsch still plasters the kitchen wall. To jazz up meals, nabe can't beat. The Japanese-style hot pot comes in a variety of flavors, with many ingredients. The new restaurant's menu also includes signature dishes like gokai nokkezushi (cucumber rolls with minced tuna, salmon roe, sea urchin & crab meat), sweet crab grilled in the shell with butter, and izakaya's popular combo, yakitori—salted and charred chicken and pork—with sake, shochu, or a draught beer (the drinks menu has a wide selection). It's an authentic experience, enjoyable any night, and a taste of Japanese cuisine that is hard to match.

4/F, Donki Mall, 107 Ekkamai Soi 5, Sukhumvit 63 Rd., 02-120-4469.

Open Sun-Thu 11am-midnight (last order 11pm),

Fri-Sat 11am-4am (last order 3am)

BEST SOUTHERN

BEST
SOUTHERN

Khua Kling Pak Sod

The southern restaurant by which all other southern restaurants in Bangkok are measured. The list of must-orders ranges from the crab curry with kanom jeen and the braised pork belly in Chinese five-spice, to the stink beans with shrimp and namesake khua kling (a dry minced curry)—meaning many dining partners are essential if you're to finish.

21/32 Sukhumvit Soi 23, 02-259-5189.
Open daily 11am-10:30pm. Other branches: Ari; Sukhumvit Soi 53; Surawong.

Baan Ice

Inside tip for anyone who can't get a table at Sorn: Supakorn Jongsiri's other restaurant, Baan Ice, boasts just as much flavor and at wallet-friendly prices. His family has roots in the southern region of Thailand, with recipes drawn from his grandma's cookbook. His pad sataw kapi goong (stir-fried prawns with sataw beans) and gaeng luaeng pla sam lee (spicy sour soup with black banded trevally and fermented bamboo shoots) are notable for their uncompromising sourness and heat.

115 Sukhumvit Soi 55 (Thonglor), 02-381-6441. Open daily 11am-10pm

Prai Raya

Phuket's celebrated southern cuisine specialist has a reputation for full-powered southern flavors. Here you'll find khua kling that grows with a slow burn, and a crab yellow curry chockfull of big crabmeat chunks. About the only thing that's not authentic is the pastiche interior.

Ekkamai's much-loved northern-Thai diner is so successful that it even opened a branch in Chiang Mai last year. At lunch, queues form for rows of homemade khao gaeng-style offerings, spicy sai oua (northern sausage) and khao soi gai—all at rock bottom prices. With brushed concrete floors, hanging ferns and metal lampshades, this is a cut above your average street-side diner.

Ekkamai Soi 2, 085-037-8916. Open Mon-Sat 9am-9pm

Gedhawa

Down a quiet soi off Sukhumvit, this family-run restaurant dishes out pleasantly light khao soi, refreshing pomelo salads, and home-style kua kae (stir-fried vegetables with chicken) in a Lanna setting: potted orchids, hanging tung (northern flags), bright pink walls, dark-wood furniture. With its friendly prices, this chilled-out spot is the perfect place to escape the city madness.

Thai Niyom

Though this restaurant specializes in dishes from all the kingdom's regions, it's included here for one simple reason: its incredible sai oua (Chiang Mai sausage). The owners follow their own recipe, ensuring a juicy and unique flavor. A glistening gold and red sign welcomes you into the two-level space, where you'll also find pork ribs in Isaan tom saep (spicy soup), Chiang Mai deep-fried pork belly, southern classics and more.

Khao Yum Cha Dong Prakapong Prik Luang

Khao Pad Kaprow Moo Sap Plah Khem

THAILAND'S MOST POPULAR DISH

THIS RESTAURANT SERVES THAILAND'S CLASSIC DISH WITH AUTHENTIC FLAVORS AND CREATIVE TWISTS

One of Thailand's most popular dishes re-envisioned and reinvented

Khao Yum Cha Dong Prakapong Prik Luang, Marinated rice, cooked with Burmese tea leaves, and topped with fried sea bass and special holy basil sauce.

Khao Kaprow Kua Koong, Deep-fried shrimp with special sauce, mixed with fresh spicy pepper and topped with crispy holy basil leaves.

Khao Pad Kaprow Moo Sap Plah Khem, Moo Sap is a classic minced pork combination, but this dish also includes salted mackerel and special sauce, and is served over jasmine rice. It's an in-house secret speciality; a combo not found anywhere else.

Kaprow Khunphor's beginnings

Our story begins with a father who loves to eat kaprow a stir-fry dish cooked with holy basil. It is one of Thailand's most famous dishes, and the father loved it so much he wanted to make a perfect kaprow for his daughter.

Together with his partner, They decided to show the world how a simple kaprow dish—made with love and care—can be the tastiest dish in town. And that is how Kaprow Khunphor came be, and to serve its trademark dish throughout Bangkok.

Pad Kaprow has never been this mouth-watering

BEST ISAAN BISTRO

Somtum Der

Khon Kaen-native restaurateur Thanaruek Laoraowirodige and chef Kornthanut Thongnum have lit up Tokyo and New York with their fiery Isaan flavors, though you'll find the original blond-wood-and-bamboo branch of this som tam-focused restaurant on Sala Daeng. It packs out daily, with crowds enjoying 20 varieties of papaya salad and well-executed laab and tom saep.

BEST
ISAAN BISTRO

Phed Phed

Spicy epiphanies are a given at this buzzing, compact restaurant, whose Nakhon Phanom-hailing owners guarantee a menu of authentic gaeong om (spicy vegetable soup with pork), ko moo yang (grilled pork neck) and som tam in 20 varieties. The chic mélange of blues, marble and plants can be attributed to owners Nattaphong Saehu and Nuthakorn Jivarungsinee, who started the space as a showroom for their minimalist bag brand.

Phahonyothin Soi 8, 097-918-1175. Open Mon-Sat 11:30am-8pm

Zaap Classic

Excuse the mall location and focus on the fact that this reliable chain specializes in unexpected fare you don't find on every Isaan menu, like the deep-fried som tam with crispy shrimp, fried rice noodles and crispy pork. There's also a range of classic som tams like poo mar (blue crab), pork rind, salted egg and Chinese sausage. We love the grilled chicken with tender, juicy flesh and crisp, caramelized skin, as well as the moo yor (pork sausage)—beautifully golden and nicely seasoned.

B/F, EmQuartier, Sukhumvit Rd., 02-261-0239. Open daily 10am-9pm

Mexicano is nothing less than a Bangkok legend. It is the city's original Mexican restaurant and is still providing the best authentic Mexican food for over two decades. Savor the aromas and authentic tastes of Mexican cuisine and a great selection of margaritas and tequilas.

Somtum Khun Kan

6 Wachiratham Sathit Soi 23, 02-397-0770.
Open daily 10am-11pm

This decades-old restaurant earned its reputation by refusing to compromise on a concise menu packed with spicy flavors. We recommend the tum sua pu pla ra (papaya salad with rice noodles, fermented crab and fish), which is noticeably spicy but still mellow enough to encourage repeat spoonfuls. Other Thai-Isaan picks include the juicy kor moo yang (grilled pork shoulder) and the roasted chicken with satisfyingly crisp skin.

Somtum Convent

245 Sukhumvit Soi 31. 080-948-5579. Open daily 10am-9pm

Conveniently located in Silom, a business district by day and tourist destination by night, this bistro is popular among Bangkokian office workers looking to enjoy a proper Isaan meal. The food is invariably fresh, demonstrated by the giant vats of ingredients they go through in a single day. We like the zesty tom saab (Northeastern herb soup) with baby pork ribs, larb pla duk (spicy salad with catfish).

BEST DESSERT CAFE

Ici

Within an elegantly appointed house surrounded by a garden, Ici is a dessert-dedicated restaurant doling out picturesque sweet treats. Pastry chef Arisara “Paper” Chongphanitkul made her name in the kitchens of Ian Kittichai’s Issaya Siamese Club and the fine-dining sensation Saawaan. The menu’s playful creations include Blueberry Balloon, a light yet luscious blend of soft cheesecake, blueberry gelee, lemon cream, biscuit joconde and buttery crumble base; and macarons in flavors such as salted egg and caramelized onion.

24 Sukhumvit Soi 27, 02-007-3113.
Open Tue-Sun 10am-6pm

Kyo Roll En

Thai brothers Litti and Dej Kewkacha are fanatical about Japanese desserts and produce, taking the best of their findings back to Bangkok in the form of show-stopping treats. Their signature: roll cake, served in flavors like Hokkaido milk and matcha, alongside soft serve ice cream and other eye-popping creations. Inspiration comes largely from Kyoto, the source of both their matcha green tea and sleek interiors.

M/F, Gateway Ekkamai, Sukhumvit Rd., 02-108-2660.
Open daily 10am-9pm. 16 other branches.

Guss Damn Good

Taking its cues from Boston’s vibrant ice-cream culture, this spot whips up flavorful craft ice cream in over 40 different flavors, though each location carries only a few (on rotation) at any one time. Two recent additions include the milky Equality, with toffee and sprinkles; and Love is Love (beetroot-colored lemon ice cream with lemon curd and butter crumbs).

Paris Mikki

After nearly a decade training at the hallowed patisserie grounds of Angelina and Laduree, pastry chef Carol Boosaba opened this little white and blue cafe in Asoke. Sticking largely to French tradition, she bakes her cakes and pastries in limited supplies, using seasonal ingredients. We recommend classics like the croissant pur beurre, St. Honore, tarte au chocolat and mille-feuille.

I/F, Metha Wattana, 27 Sukhumvit Soi 19, 088-870-0020.
Open daily 10:30am-9pm. Other branch: Central Embassy.

After You

This dessert cafe's phenomenal success now spans over 74 branches from Phuket to Chiang Mai, and continues to draw long lines for its super-buttery honey toast (a giant slab of bread several inches tall) topped with vanilla ice cream and a side of whipped cream. There are equally decadent variations with Ferrero Rocher, sticky toffee and even cheddar cheese. Another must-try is the kakigori (Japanese shaved ice) with flavors like Milo Volcano and Horlicks.

BEST RAMEN

Bankara

The popularity of Japanese ramen chain Bankara knows no bounds. The oil which floats on the tsukemen's surface might put off health-conscious diners, but for the rest of us, springy, well-chilled noodles bathing in a warm and fatty soup are deeply satisfying. It takes four pages of the menu before you get past ramen, but there's a lot to be said for the tori karaage, too-crunchy on the outside, moist in the middle. Cut through all the fat with the aromatic, cherry-flavored an-nin tofu soy bean pudding.

The Manor 32/1 Sukhumvit Soi 39,
02-622-5162/3. Open daily 11am-11pm

Menya Itto

Thanks to a smooth, oil-free seafood and chicken broth that bursts with umami, this Tokyo blow-in has almost singlehandedly broken the stranglehold tonkotsu ramen has held over Bangkokians for so long. Everything here is made with precision (including freshly made noodles in two sizes and tender sous-vide toppings) befitting the chic, light-wood surrounds.

LG/F, Erawan Bangkok, 494, Phloen Chit Rd., 02-250-7669.
Open daily 11:30am-3:30pm, 6-9pm

Menya Kouji

This creamy, earthy ramen hails from Sanuki prefecture in Ibaraki and comes to Bangkok courtesy of a globe-trotting chef with venues in the US, Canada, the Philippines and Singapore. The dark and moody setting invites solo diners to wolf down hearty bowls free from judgement. Popular vote goes to the Special Ramen with its molten pork fat, slow-cooked pork-belly chashu and a boiled egg with a perfectly fudgy yolk.

BEST MIDDLE EASTERN

Hummus Boutique

This all-Mediterranean, all vegetarian venture comes decked out in warm woods and patterned tiles. The signature chickpea dip is elevated with tons of toppings and styles. Try the Lucid Dreams, which features avocado, rocket, egg, Kalamata olives, almonds and balsamic over a bowl of creamy hummus. The more traditional Falafel Party combines crispy falafel with hummus and a chopped pickle salad. Scoop up all that deliciousness with an order of house-made pitas.

999 Sukhumvit Rd., 092-819-8131.
Open Mon-Sun 11am-10:30pm

Beirut

This is one of the few solid options outside of Nana for affordable and authentic Lebanese-style doner kebabs (beef or chicken), served with hummus. Despite the large menu, food here is comforting and consistent, like the crunchy falafels that pair wonderfully with garlic dip; and the delightfully textured mankoushe (a kind of Lebanese pizza).

B/F, Ploenchit Center, Sukhumvit Soi 2, 02-656-7377.
Open daily 11am-11pm. Other Branches: Silom; Sukhumvit Soi 39.

Nadimos

This elegant addition to the local Lebanese scene has competent service and a kitchen to match. Mains cover all the usual suspects like the kebab khashkhash, which combines tender skewers of charcoal-grilled lamb with a wonderfully tasty tomato sauce; kibbeh, the national dish in a little torpedo of crispy wheat, filled with a fragrant meat filling; and pleasant cold dips of silky hummus and baba ghanoush (smokey grilled eggplant dip).

99 Sukhumvit Soi 24, 02-261-9816.

Al Rawche

The no-frills, food-first Al Rawche dishes out superbly spiced meat, bread that's made fresh, and smooth, zesty hummus with a strong hit of toasted tahini. The real show-stopper is the chicken tawook, a skewer of grilled chicken in a yogurt and lemon marinade matched with a pungent and silky garlic dip. If you're having trouble deciding between kebabs, get the small mixed set of five.

95 Sukhumvit Soi 5, 02-655-0099. Open daily 11am-2am

Bamboo

For those who hold kebabs and shisha in equal regard, head to Bamboo. The restaurant's dark mood and tone make for an intimate space, just right to tuck into juicy grilled kebabs, tender shawarma and soft, airy naan bread baked fresh in a wood-fired oven.

BEST CHINESE

Chef Man

Chef Man is probably Bangkok's most popular dim sum joint these days, and the wait-list reflects that. If you're going, you probably should have made your reservation yesterday. Hong Kong-born chef Man Wai Yin's Peking duck and oozing lava buns often steal the headlines, but the crisp pork belly and wagyu short ribs are not to be overlooked. The atmosphere is vibrant, thanks to the large open kitchen with a small frenzied army of cooks. Chef Man single-handedly rekindled the dim sum craze, he says, through preparation, fresh ingredients and perfect timing.

Eastin Grand Sathorn, 33/1 Sathorn Rd., 02-212-3741, 02-212-3789. Open daily 11am-2:30pm, 6-10pm. Other branches: Thana City Sports Club; Ratchadamri.

Hong Bao

The huge crowds that fill this restaurant's bright, light dining space are here for the all-day dim sum presented in a European-style room—complete with chandeliers and 18th-century ink drawings. Brisk service and sa-lubrious surroundings complement an endless parade of dumplings, noodles and buns. Don't miss the incredible variety of steamed rice rolls—we're particularly fond of the crispy shrimp variety.

104 Sukhumvit Soi 39, 092-273-5242, 02-662-3565 and 094-415-7777. Open Mon-Fri 11am-2:30pm, 5:30-10pm; Sat-Sun 10:30am-10pm

Lhong Tou Café

In the thick of Yaowarat, this neon-tinged cafe dishes out Chinese-influenced snacks that pair perfectly with coffee or tea. Try the crispy yet creamy egg lava buns and savory Lhong Tou shumai, small boiled dumplings stuffed with pork and Chinese chives.

538 Yaowarat Rd., 085-824-6934. Open Tue-Sun 8am-10pm

Tuang by Chef Yip

This is one of Bangkok's best and most-affordable dim sum restaurants. From the outside, it doesn't look like much to write home about, but once you see all the awards and certificates hanging from the walls you'll realize you've come across one of the city's true gems. Hong Kong-born chef Yip brings a ton of experience and expertise from Shangri-La Bangkok's Shang Palace restaurant, and everything on the menu is worthwhile.

Ko Kung

Unless you happened to catch the energetic servers popping their heads out with a harmonized “anyoung haseyo!” you may well have passed this not-so-tiny Korean restaurant without noticing. The menu sees a long list of classic Korean dishes and barbecue ingredients, including sirloin, marinated beef, prime rib, bibimbap and tteokbokki. The attentive staff is led by a caring Korean chef/owner, who walks around to greet the customers and genially ask whether the food is okay.

74 Sukhumvit Soi 26, 02-261-0560. Open daily 11am-11pm

Joha

This hip cafe moved to a bigger venue in late 2018 to accommodate growing crowds. From a glass-walled kitchen, classics like tteokbokki (stir-fried rice cakes) and super-flavorful kimchi fried rice appear. The dining room is a moody mix of steel, deep red and dark turquoise.

Kiani

With its cheery fonts and cartoon forest murals, Kiani speaks of its owners' welcoming reputation ("the nicest people ever" according to online reviews we wouldn't disagree with). Many call it the most authentic Korean in Bangkok thanks to generous portions of pork kimchi soup, spicy Korean barbecue, bibimbap and plenty more. Special mention has to go to the pork jab chae (glass noodle stir-fry) as well as the service.

90 Thonglor Soi 2, 02-714-7730. Open daily 11am-9pm

Hobak

From its street-style wood, brick and breeze block-clad home in Sukhumvit's Korea Town, this family-friendly restaurant serves a full menu of Korean hot pots, barbecue and sides like kimchi pancakes and ssal tteokbokki. Faux windows looking out to sepia pictures of the homeland and screens blasting K-pop videos complete the vibe.

Thonglor Soi 10, 095-795-5396. Open Wed-Mon 6pm-1am

Bangkok's Korean culture obsession gets a new lease of life with this upscale gastropub. Amid grungy industrial vibes, indulge in Korean fusion dishes like kimchi risotto and "K-Poutine," which sees beef in gravy topped with diced kimchi. All cocktails use Korean spirits as the base—try the Bulgogi Old Fashioned, served with a side of dark chocolate with smoke for added flavor. BEST VIETNAMESE

Tonkin Annam

This reinvented shop-house in Tha Tien takes a deep-dive into Vietnamese cuisine, serving up lesser-known, region-specific dishes you won't often find in Bangkok. The two stories are a modern take on shabby chic: faux peeling walls and unassuming artwork that add up to a low-key yet stylish ambience. Highlights include the bun bo Hue, a noodle soup made to a family recipe that's richer and heavier than pho, or the banh cuon, silky rice crepes stuffed with ground pork and plentiful chives.

East Bound

Probably Bangkok's coolest Vietnamese restaurant, this counter at The Commons comes covered in skateboarding and crust-punk stickers. Its main claim to fame is the banh mi sandwiches, which take a creative New American direction. Instead of baguettes stuffed with the usual cold cuts, the focus is on warm, stir-fried fillings like juicy, Sriracha-slathered duck—a decadent treat. Round out your meal with on-point summer rolls or a noodle bowl. Bonus: vegetarian options aplenty.

G/F, The Commons, 335/1 Thonglor Soi 17. Open daily 11am-10pm

Hanoi House

This Vietnamese spot shines a light on traditional, simple and wholesome staples—no mashup fusion flavors here. The eight-hour-stewed beef pho is light and fragrant, while the nam nueng (large marinated grilled pork dumplings) taste just right: sweet, salty and juicy, but not dripping with fat. For your carb fix, a plate of Vietnamese fried rice is a must: warm, rich and comforting, with a depth of flavor that hints at curry powder, and a generous topping of shredded pork.

Vietnamese restaurants in Bangkok don't get more upscale than this centuries-old, restored teak house surrounded by a verdant garden. Seat yourself in the antique-laden dining room and settle in for faithful renditions of royal Vietnamese recipes. There's no beating Le Dalat's classic chao tom (shrimp paste on sugarcane) and banh cuon (steamed rice rolls with pork and wood-eat mushrooms) for freshness you can taste.

BEST MEXICAN

Barrio Bonnito

The winner of BK's "Best Carnitas Taco" taste test, this Mexican joint doles out full-flavored tacos, burritos, ceviche and other antojitos (appetizers) in a fun, communal setting. The best-selling tacos de barbacoa feature seven-hour slow-cooked lamb marinated in ancho chili paste with fresh coriander and onion, but we suggest the lip-smacking tacos placeros, in which corn tortillas are filled with beans, salsa fresca, crumbled cheese and crispy pork rinds, and served with a side of avocado mousse.

The Commons, Thonglor Soi 17, 092-331-5203. Open daily noon-11pm

BEST MEXICAN

Tacos & Salsa

Bright and bold describes not only the decor, but also the food. Here, the all-timer goes to the baja fried fish tacos with cabbage, salsa and a creamy chipotle dressing. But the taco dorados—deep-fried tortillas filled with pork carnitas and topped with guacamole—are not to be missed either. With its low-key charm—all hand-painted murals and the occasional sombrero—this restaurant is made for long and loud nights with friends.

21/3 Sukhumvit Soi 18, 02-663-6366. Open daily noon-midnight. Other branch: On Nut.

Missing Burro

From a shipping container-turned-kitchen, two Mexican brothers serve Yucatan cuisine to a sprinkling of tables in a peaceful garden. The panuchos de cochinita offer a true taste of Mexico: corn tortillas filled with roasted pork marinated in achiote, sour orange and spices, cooked in a banana leaf. The Gringa is a decadent queso cheese and meat-filled tortilla, while the Chilequeso is more of the good stuff in a casserole of perfectly cooked onions, peppers and tomatoes. It all comes with salsa that packs a good kick and dollop of sour cream.

Originated from Melbourne, Australia, this Mexican restaurant can make an effortless transition from dinner to night out with its slick atmosphere. Chilis and other fancy ingredients are flown from Mexico, but it's the perfectly soft corn tortillas that almost steal the show. BEST BURGER

Chef Bar

This shophouse is so tiny the ice box for drinks has been parked out front for over six years. It's just a few wooden tables and 15 seats, on a wildly crowded Asoke soi. But Roland Graham counts four decades as a chef, and he knows exactly what he's doing. The beef is Australian and ground in-house—try the signature Robbins Island wagyu burger with roasted wild mushrooms, truffle creme fraiche and cheese, topped with sauces and seasonings all made from scratch (including the ketchup). Rinse it down with wine or craft beer.

Across from Prasarnmitr Plaza, Sukhumvit Soi 21/2, O8O-O52-7336. Open Mon-Tue, Thu-Sat 5-9pm

Daniel Thaiger

This pioneer burger truck has since added two permanent homes: Sukhumvit Soi 11, and The Commons, in Thonglor. The burgers are handcrafted, chargrilled, greasy, buttery, and no nonsense—classics—cheddar, lettuce, tomatoes, onions and signature Thaiger sauce. The American expat community considers it their own. The bright red truck still shows up around town at special pop-ups, and often parks on Sukhumvit Soi 38.

30 Sukhumvit Soi 11, O2-255-5532. Open daily 11:30am-1:30am. Other Branch: The Commons.

Bun Meat & Cheese

Taiki Tsubota broke the Internet back in 2018 with a 1,000-strong waitlist at his “pay what you feel” pop-up. Since then, his perfectionist burgers have found a permanent home in Thonglor. Expect precision, super-light Japanese milk buns and steamed cheese plus optional caramelized onions, crispy shallots, sweet gherkins, pickled jalapenos, Homeburg special sauce, mayo and more. The Homeburg burger is a legend.

1/F, 72 Courtyard, 72 Sukhumvit Soi 55 (Thonglor), O2-392-7999. Tue-Sun 5pm-1am

Fatty's

A famously grungy space out in the Rama 9 badlands, Fatty's mostly flies under the radar. But it boasts a loyal following among expats, plus a rock and roll vibe—it's a live venue too—and the kitchen has a real way with all-American junk food, at reasonable prices. Some of the sandwiches—like the Curdburglar—are outrageous. They also serve buffalo wings and deep-fried, bacon wrapped sausage—aka Jack the Ripper.

598/66 Asoke Din Daeng Rd., 081-438 7221 and 02-245-2965.
Open Tue-Sun 11am-midnight

Escapade

Formerly located in a homey shop-house on Phra Atit Road, this collaboration between a mixologist and a foodie recently moved to Warehouse 30's hip hub of food and art. It seems like a strange mix—craft cocktails, creative smoothies and great burgers—but it works. In the mix: beef and pork burgers, fries, onion rings and nachos, and the Quarter Cow—two beef patties, two slices of cheese and truffle sauce.

iO Italian Osteria

This Sicilian pizzeria and delicatessen offers an extravagant take on an Italian tavern. Food from 20 Italian regions fills the menu—Roman pizza and Neapolitan pies served al taglio (“by the cut”), carbonara, Bolognese, orecchiette and olive all’ascolana (pork-stuffed fried olives)—all made from scratch, and most using imported ingredients flown in from Italy. Wine by the glass is barrel-poured.

I/F, The Groove @ Central World, Rama I Rd., O2-117-3826.
Open daily 11am-midnight

Ciao Pizza

Silom Soi 3, 094-754-7777. Open daily 11:30am-2pm, 5:30-11:30pm

A big, wood-fire oven sits right by the front window and sets the scene at this convivial pizzeria. Chef Gerardo Calabrese’s twice-risen pizza dough comes light and crispy, with toppings like margherita, four cheese, seafood and even Nutella. Other surefire hits include the platters of burrata cheese with cold cuts and the strozzapreti pasta with pesto—delightfully al dente.

Pizzeria Mazzie

A crew of New Yorkers brought this Brooklyn-style pizza to Ekkamai. The dough is handmade—with only four ingredients—then hand tossed, covered in toppings and baked in a custom-made “low-dome” Acunato oven from Naples. The pies are thin crust perfection and served with craft beers and biodynamic wines in a laidback venue. The Hot Hipster comes topped with molten fiore di latte mozzarella, spicy Calabrian salami, hot honey, chili, pecorino and basil.

Park Lane Ekkamai, 23 Sukhumvit Soi 63, O2-O6O-8822.
Tue 5:30-10:30pm; Wed-Sun noon-2:30pm, 5:30-10:30pm

Carbar

G/F, 72 Courtyard, 72 Sukhumvit Soi 55, 02-392-6922.
Open daily 6 pm-2am. BTS Thong Lo

This is a Bangkok guilty pleasure; serving up carb-loaded dishes amidst rustic-industrial decor, neon signage and hanging bulbs. Opt for the nduja scamorza pizza with parsley—nduja is Calabrian salami, and scamorza is cheese akin to smoked mozzarella. There is also hand-cut Pappardelle pasta with duck ragu, parmesan cream, and duck skin crumble. End your meal with the mellow olive oil cake served with honey, thyme, and aromatic vanilla ice cream.

BEST BARBECUE

Smack n' Smokes

The specialty here is melt-in-your-mouth beef and pork rib racks rubbed with 15 different spices, set to rest for 10 hours, and then smoked for 12 hours more. This cozy and rustic American-style wood-and-charcoal smoke joint rests across the street from Wat Trihotsathep; just a short walk (up Prachathipatai Rd.) from Democracy Monument. The menu also includes more than 100 types of craft beer.

62 Prachathipatai Rd., 087-555-6798.
Open Tue-Sun 11am-2pm, 5-11pm

Smokin' Pug

Five days a week, smoky, sticky, fall-off-the-bone, baby-back pork ribs pour out of the Pug's giant courtyard smoker. Offering a true taste of the American South, this smokehouse sits just a few minutes' walk from Lumpini Park. The venue has always had a raucous, friendly vibe—perfect for a whisky sour or three.

105 Lang Suan Rd., 083-029-7598. Open Tue-Sat 5-11pm

Feed the Beast

Offset smokers and fruit tree wood—like longan and lychee—imported from northern Thailand make for seriously tender briskets that pull the crowds, despite the location on the Thonburi side of the river. Be forewarned that reservations are highly recommended for weekends.

Ola Thai Tapas

18/1 Charoenkrung Rd., 099-294-6868. Open Wed-Mon 11am-1am

This narrow tapas bar channels the European countryside with a rough brick interior adorned with ukuleles, bronze milk jugs and wooden pew seating. In a more intercontinental vein, Thai bites like salted egg yolks with shrimp and pork on toast sit alongside calamari, pintxo and antipasto platters. Pair them with punchy cocktails like the Bangkok Twilight (mango puree, pineapple juice, honey, lime, vodka and coriander). Take a seat every night from 8-10pm to enjoy live music with a free glass of Sangria.

Maguro Sushi

Getting a seat at this phenomenally successful little chain of sushi restaurants always comes with a long wait, but you'll understand why when you discover just how chunky the cuts of fresh sashimi are, or how crispy and rich the unagi is, or how crunchy and juicy the rolls are. Take your number, wait in line, and know that the end results are always worth it.

983 Bang Na-Trat Rd., O62-556-6266. Open daily 11am-10pm

Sushi Cyu

The sushi arm of this sushi-and-yakiniku specialist lets you try the omakase (chef's selection) experience at a fraction of the usual cost. You still get a calming environment of cypress wood and an L-shaped counter where chefs slice and prep, but your eight-to-13 course meals will come in well under B3,000. Ingredients arrive from Japan three times a week.

3/F, CentralWorld, 999/9 Rama I Rd., 065-731-4844.
Open daily 11am-10pm

Honmono

This sushi mecca sells a wide range of high-quality fish flown in weekly from Toyosu market. The sashimi platter is a must-try, featuring two types of tuna, salmon, octopus, surf clams, hamachi and more. We also love the grilled razor clams in soy sauce and the unagi dragon roll.

BEST INDIAN

Indian Hut

An Indian diner boasting powerfully flavored dal tadka, rich curries, and pillowy, well-charred naan. Some dishes show a welcome attention to authenticity, like the vinegar tartness to their lamb vindaloo (rich with tender meat), while others such as the murgh makhani have the smooth, creamy, sweet-and-spicy hints of an Anglo-Indian curry house. Service in the regal dining room is overwhelmingly attentive.

Saravanna Bhavan

Its sign boldly declares it the “world’s no. 1 Indian vegetarian restaurant chain,” boasting over 100 branches around the world. The restaurant’s ubiquity in its home state of Tamil Nadu, in India’s south, means locals often refer to it as their version of McDonald’s. The menu is gargantuan but typically centers on the holy trinity of dosa (thin rice and lentil crepes with various fillings), idli (steamed lentil rice cakes) and vada (crispy lentil donuts).

2/F, Baan Silom, Silom Soi 19, O2-635-4556. Open daily 8am-10:30pm

Dosa King

If you’re looking to experience some real southern Indian cooking, then this spot is for you. Seventeen years after opening, it’s perpetually crowded with mostly Indian customers and the wood-heavy interiors are as simple and comfortable as the day it began. The long menu is a repertory of vegetarian staples: light and fluffy idli; crunchy-edged vada; and satisfyingly crisp and addictive dosa stuffed with various fillings.

Front Room

Experience Nordic cuisine with Thai twists courtesy of head chef Rungthiwa Chummongkol. The combination of Nordic cooking techniques and locally sourced ingredients results in creative dishes in sharing plate portions, such as Maelk—smoked scallops, caramelized milk, lemongrass, chilli and herbs—and Raised in Korat—beef tartare served with tangy pickled papaya. Complete the meal with matching wines or creative cocktails near the floor-to-ceiling windows in this spacious venue.

BaanIce Restaurant

Discover authentic Southern Cuisine at Baan Ice, a cozy and contemporary style restaurant on Thonglor.

Located right on the Thonglor main road between Soi 5 and Soi 7, the interior offers a warm and casual atmosphere with rustic southern charm. The spacious outer garden is surrounded by flowers and great for group dining. You will also find convenient transportation to the restaurant both by the BTS (Thonglor station) and by car, thanks to free parking that's provided for customers.

Originating from Chef Ice's grandmother's kitchen 25 years ago, the recipes and way of cooking here has been inherited from Nakorn Si Thammarat Province and retained to perfection until now.

The dishes are resolutely Southern Thai, moderately hot and spicy in flavor, combined to a great variation on classic dishes. The secret to every good Thai dish, the chili paste or Nam Prik Kaeng is delicately made using authentic methods. A natural abundance of herbs, local provisions of coconut cream and the gorgeous blends of turmeric, galangal, garlic, lemongrass and hand-picked kaffir lime leaves is ground into a velvety paste to achieve the core of southern cuisine and give every dish a unique taste of Thai spices.

We guarantee our foodie visitors, Baan Ice offers nothing but enchanting flavor in every course. If you want to have the best Southern cuisine in town, at Baan Ice you are more than welcome.
